NOT ALL IN BRINGING UP.

It isn't all in'bringing up, Let folks say what they will;
You silver wash a pewter cup,
It will be pewter still.
E'en the old wise Solomon, Who said, "train up a child,"
If I mistake not, raised a son, Gay, rattle-brained, and wild.

Aman of mark, who fain would pass For lord of sea and land, May have the training of an ass, And bring him up full grand. May give him all the wealth of lore, Of college and of school; Yet, after all, make him no more Young Lady in 1782. We have before us a very handsome and pleasing little volume of litty-six pages, entitled "Journal of a young lady of Virginia, 1782," printed and published for the benefit of the Lee Memorial Association of Richmon This journal oppears to have been written by the young lady while on a visit to the Lees Washington, and other families of Virginia It is in the form of a letter continued from day day, and addressed to Miss Polly Brent After the lapse of eighty-nine years the man-uscript was found 'in an old desk at a country lace in Maryland, to which Polly Brent carried it upon her marriage into one of the old families of that State."

There is a quaintness, a freshness, and a feminine love of gossip in this journal that will be pleasing to every reader. It gives pictures of the manuers of the period at which it was written. It would seem that the ladies then, us now, took time to primp, and that the gen themen sometimes got tipsy. The following extract presents (wo young ladies (one the writer of the journal) in a point of view decidedly not romantic. Two coal-heavers could not have existed a superior capacity for eating. It also presents a pretty rough case of romping. Manners must have been somewhat free in those days. The journal says:

"I must tell you of our frolic after we went to our room. We took it into our beads to want to eat. Well, we had a large dish of bacon and beef; after that, a bowl of sago cream; and after that, an apple pie. While we were eating the apple pie in bed—God bless you! making a great noise—in came Mr. Washington, dressed in Hannah's short gown and petticoat, and in Hannah's short gown and petticoat, and seized and kissed metwenty times, in spite of all the resistance I could make, and then cousi Molly. Hannah soon followed, dressed in his coat. They joined us in cating the apple pic, and then went out. After this we took it into our beads to want to eat oysters. We got up, put on our wrappers, and went down into the cellar to get them. Do you think Mr. Washington did not follow us and scare us just to death? We went up, though, and cat our oysters. We slept in the old lady's room, too, and she sat laughting fit to kill herself at us. and she sat laughing fit to kill herself at us (Wonder where the pickles were?)"

Frequent allusions are made to the Fredericksburg races. The "Forti-planer" and the "Spinner" are often referred to. This little volume only gives true pictures of Virginia life; but a very charming young lady was the writer, and now, nearly a century after it was written, it is published .- Richmond Whig.

Who Wrote General Jackson's Proclamation

To the Editor of the Tribune: Sin: In your speech at New Orleans, when speaking of Gen. Jackson's proclamation, you said: "Edward Livingston very probably wrote it." The following statement may be implicitly relied on as correct: During the po litical campaign of 1848, in Ohio, an intimate friend of mine, David Begges, Esq., drove Gov. Corwin to and from New Lisbon, Ohio, in his carriage. Doing business in the same office, I asked Mr. Begges, the day after, if he had had any conversation with Mr. Corwin of special interest. Mr. Begges replied that he had nsked Mr. Corwin if he knew who wrote Gen. Jackson's proclamation. Mr. Corwin answered: "Some years ago I had some business in the office of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company, which I transacted with Lewis Me Lane, of Delaware, who was then president of the company. When my business was finished I asked him if he knew who wrote Gen. Jackson's proclamation. Mr. McLane then rose from his seat, and drew from a pigeon hole a document, which he handed to me, saying it was the protocol of the proclamation, with interlineations and correctious. Mr. McLane also said that, on account of Gen. Jackson. handwriting being obscure, he was obliged to make a copy for the printer's use."

What but a suppressed sense of humor, in both speaker and auditors, could possibly have carried off such a speech as this, which is attributed to Webster?

Men of Rochester, I am glad to see you, und I am glad to see your noble city. Gentle-inen, I saw your falls, which I am told are one hundred and fifty feet high. That is a very in teresting fact. Gentlemen, Rome had her Ciesar, her Scipio, her Brutus, but Rome, in her proudest days, had never a waterfall a hundred and fifty feet high! Gentlemen, Greece had her Pericles, her Demosthenes, and her Socrates, but Greece, in her pulmiest days, never had a waterfall a hundred and fifty feet high! Men of Rochester, go on. No people ever lost their liberties who had a waterfall one hundred and fifty feet high! "—Bench and Bur, but M. Minglow. by L J. Bigelow.

DISGUSTING CRUELTY TO ANIMALS.—The indefatigable Mr. Bergh dragged to the Court of Justice this morning, one James M. Comins, of No. 143 East Twenty-sixth street, a physician, whom he charges with setting traps to catch cats in his garden at night, said traps catching the animals by the feet and holding them in tervible torture, to the annoyance, horror, and disgust of the neighbors, until Comins enters the garden and kills the cats by clubbing them to death. It is also alleged that he lastens cats around the body and saspends them high up in the air until the night is hideous with their howls of agony. Fastideous people will be apt to skip this paragraph, on necount of its heading, so this may be the proper place to state that B. F. Butler is in town, having an rived on Saturday morning, and will remain until Wednesday. He dined at the Unio League Club last evening, and is expected to participate in the demonstration to the Hon Horace Greeley this evening.

A Young Giri's Thoughts .- Parepa Ros was singing Casta Diva at San Francisco Folding her white hands on her bosom, an raising her tender eyes, she commenced her Edium notes, the melody swelling and breaking into a gush of plaintive, supplicating har mony, that vibrated through every chord of the heart.

I glanced at my friend at my side, radiant in her dress and hydroof golden hair, and there was a sweet jensive look on her downcast lice. The music ceased and the undience, wild with enthusiasm, was demanding an encore, when beautiful companion raised her large screne eves to mine and said "lsu't it and?"

Universal suffrage in Spain is a pcculiar institution, according to a Port Malion correspondent of the Springfield (Mass.) Republican. Previous to the late elections in some localities the Republican candidates were arrested and kept locked up in jail until the voting was over. In Cadiz, out of 17,000 or 18,000 voters, only 5 000 were registered and allowed to vote. In a single ward in Madrid 290 out of 400 soldiers who voted were under age; and when bystanders at the polls protested they were told either to hold their tongues or go to jail. Where the election of members to the Cortes was contested the Ministerial candidates were admitted to their seats in all cases.

Universal suffrage in many of the Southern States of this Union, under Radical manipulation, is, in principle, but little different from what it is here described to be in Spain. When I declined the nomination of the Convention in my note to the Committee of May 19th, I had no thought of again becoming a candidate. I took that course solely from a desire to promote the harmony of the Democratic party-which I hold above any personal considerations or orivate ambition some considerations impel me to adhere to the decision then taken.

After I had forwarded my note declining the nomination, and immediately after the publication of the ballot, by which it appeared that n majority of the votes in the Convention were cast for Maj. J. A. Grant, and that my nomination was unnounced by reason of a mistake in addition, I published a card unnonneing that my withdrawal from the race was absolute and final, in which I had the honor to suggest o your Committee the propriety of placing his name upon the ticket.

The Committee, however, had already takeu action in the matter, and had addressed their circular letter to the Executive Committees of the various counties, requesting that the vote be recast in the manner prescribed by them, and could not, with propriety, reconsider their action. The response from the people is a complete vindication of their course, and a gratifying evidence of the disposition of the party throughout the State to sustain the regulnr action of its constituted authorities, and to maintain proper organization and discipline -without which continued success cannot be expected. Not only organization and discipline, but thorough harmony is necessary. 1 to fully persuaded that I can best promote this by remaining out of this contest; and I trust you will not deem it officious in me to here repeat my former suggestion, that the Committee place the name of Maj. The Central Committee, as well as Maj Grant and myself, have had delicate tasks to perform, and each, I am satisfied, has beer subjected to unjust criticism, either from mis take as to facts, or from over-zealous efforts to serve friends. If errors have been committed by any, they were certainly unintentional; ad a fair solution having been reached, all who have the interests of the party at heart ought to acquiesce, and further discussion

Secretary Jeremiah S Black: The Executive Committee of the Democracy of this State, to whom the following address was referred by the recent State Convention, now present the same to you as embodying some of the reasons which actuate and control the organization they represent: solemitly renew our often repeated declaration of fidelity to the great principles upon which our party has acted from the time of its first organization. Our ultimate objects are those of our fathers when they adopted the Federal Constitution, viz: "To form a more perfect union, to establish instice, to insure domestic tranquillity, to promote the general welfare, to provide for the common defense; and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our pos-terity. We sincerely believe that the Government of the United States, administered as t was in former days, with a direct view to the advancement of these principles, would do for us and for our children all that any people can reasonably desire from the political system under which they live. We are equally sare that if not carried out in the spirit of those by whom it was tramed it must become a curst instead of a blessing. Situated us we are obedience to the fundamental law means not only the honest performance of sworn obligations, but freedom, peace, and prosperity to all is not only a crime in itself, but the fruitful parent of other crimes, and will lead, as it has alrendy led, to indefinite misgovernment, corruption, and tyranny, subverting all liberty and rendering the rights of all men insecur-When we speak of the Federal Constitution we mean the whole instrument, with all its amendments, and acknowledge the equal obligation of every part. Several of those amendments were carried by brute force and by frands upon the public will so glaring as to take from their authors all claim upon our re spect. The two last and most important of their anti-constitutional measures to represent the county in the next Legislature, show more distinctly than others their settled design to strangle the liberties of the nation, and take perpetual power into their own hands. THE ISSUES.

It will surely be admitted that all American citizens who believe these facts to be true are bound by the spered obligations of patriotism, honor, and conscience to oppose this state of things, and by opposing end it. Chenoweth's speech Judge Craddock, in response to a very general call, addressed the au lience in a speech of half an hour, in which he discussed the new amendments and the Radical policy of the General Government, showing how steady were the encroachments of power upon the libertics of the people, how fatal they would prove if not arrested. This he did not believe was to be effected by endorsing their usurpations especially as manifested in the 14th and 15th amendments, the manner of their adoption and the power claimed under Hartford, Ohio county, Thursday, July 27. them. He took strong ground against the "New Departure" as countenancing these Radical acts.

Both speeches were listened to with close attention, and the speakers were frequently applanded. We regret that our space precludes a more extended notice of their merits.

DEATH OF AN OLD CITIZEN. -- We regret to announce the death of Mr. John R. Scott, of this county, who departed this life at his residence in this county on Sunday afternoon He was the son of the late Joel W. Scott, and elder brother of Robt. W. Scott, E-q. For nearly a year he has been in bad health, and his death has not come unexpected to his friends, among whom he numbered all who and a most estimable citizen. His funeral will take place from his residence at half-past nine o'clock this morning.

THE FOURTH.-The celebration of the fourth in this community will principally consist in a number of picnice, burgoos, &c.,

The Good Templars' picnic, in Walcutt's woods, will be attended by all the Good Templars and best dancers. The Lodge is composed mostly of young ladies and young gentleman, and it will, beyond doubt, be the most attractive entertainment of the day There will be two burgoos. One will be at. tended by some of the most ancient and substantial citizens, and at the other young America will largely prevail. The Baptist Sanday School will have a picnic in Squire Todd's woods, near his residence. The Presbyterian Sunday School will have a feast in their school-room, in the basement of the Church at night.

COUNTY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION .- The phyrequested to meet at the court-house (up stairs) on Saturday, July 15th, at 2 P. M. The intention is to form a County Medical Association.

A RELIC OF THE OLDEN TIME -While the workinen were engaged the other day excavating for the foundation of Mr. Reynolds' new flouring mill, they encountered what appeared the stump of a sapling, a foot er more in diameter, just on the corner of St. Clain and Wapping street. This ordinarily would not have excited any attention, had it not been recognized by Mr. J. M. Martin as the remains of the Clay ash pole placed there during the exciting political campaign of 1841. Mr. Martin, who is superintending the crection of the mill, was present at the raising, and identified it as the venerable and well-preserved stump of the pole which he had as sisted in planting there twenty-seven years

On Saturday the Democracy of Louisville nominated Messrs. A. T. Pope and B. J. Webb for the Senate, and Messrs. Ferguson, Steksteder, Waide, Wright, Anderson, Carpenter, and Cassily, for the Honse. Two districts have yet to make nominations.

Judge T. F. Hargis, Democratic canfrom the Interior Department, and dated June published a list of appointments for public speaking at mest of the prominent points in those counties.

W HERE'S MU LF-A GREAT SA AT LOUISVILLE, KY., MON-DAY, JULY 10, 1871.

There are thousands to whom the above caption may seem inexplicable, while again it evokes weighty remembrances in the minds of that class of Kentuckians whose experiences as excellent; and religious, educational, and since the war, have time and again caused them to bitterly wish that they had never seen or heard of such a quadruped.

But to the point. We all know that a favorite mode of investment of capital by the numerous small lots for stock of all kinds, with residents of the stock-raising section of our four woodlands located on different parts of the State has been in mules and other live stock. In a majority of instances, the moment a ing, in good condition, made in the best manyoung man arrives at an age when it is thought ner, and of the best materials. he is competent to transact business for himself, or others, all his available cash, as well as credit, is embarked in procuring a drove of stock to take South. SUMMER PAINING OF THE GRAPE.-Very much wood as possible, and yet maintain a healthy growth of vine and maturation of fruit. In our May number we drew the attention of our readers to the lirst point, viz. that of rubbing out or destroying all superfluous buds; but at this sensor the vines are vigorous and growing.

M. F. Carreer S. Frey Born W. I. Down Posters this season the vines are vigorous and growing so rapidly that an almost daily attention is necsonal to the vines are vigorous and growing M. E. Cheach, Sath-Rev. T. J. Donn, Pastor Sunday services—11 A. M.; 7 P. M. essary. If from neglect the shoots have got two or more leaves beyond what they should have, it is better to stop them back with the thumb and finger, leaving an extra lenf, rather than hereafter to go through and cut and shish in order to get breathing room for the foliage. bet the cames for next year's fruiting grow as strong as they may, laterals and all, without any pinching; especially is this to be heeded with Clinton, Norton's Virginia, and other sorts, which, it is fast coming to be learned, produce the most and best fruit on the laterals of this year, and therefore need, in fall prunings, to be left with long caues. On the fruit caues some advise stopping at one leaf beyond the last bunch of fruit; we prefer to let it make two or three leaves before stopping, believing that the more expanse of perfect leaf we can get on that cane or extension the better will be our fruit.

Another point we must urge, and that is, a judicious and eareful thinning of the fruit. Too much fruit not only exhausts the vine and enfeebles it so as to induce disease, but the quality of the fruit is so much impaired, that he who buys for the marketor wine will reduce the price accordingly. Two pounds of really large and perfect bunches will bring nearly, if not quite, as much as three pounds of imperfect ones; and the grower will find for the first a ready sale, while for the second the buyer will bestate and busile when the price - Ecohagua. besitate and haggle about the price .- Exchange.

The Antiquity of Candles.

Certain books inform us that candles and lamps for illumination have been employed from the earliest historical times. Both are mentioned in the Bible; and, indeed, it is difficult to understand from scripture narrative wnether candies or lamps are indicated, lamps burning olive oil being ordered to be placed on candlesticks (Lev. xxiv). Pliny, referring to rushes and to flax describes parts of them as adapted for lamps and candlewicks. Although this author minutely describes the prothough 'ms author minutely describes the pro-cess of wax blearling, he does not state what materials were used in his time for the mana-facture of can lies. Doubtless, however, both wax and tallow were used by the aucients for this purpose; indeed, Apuleis distinguishes two sorts of candles by the names cerei and

In the middle ages, wax eandles of various sizes were made, and it is said in moulds—though wax candles cannot be now moulded the wicks being twisted tow. At the command of King Altred, the chaplains made wax candles in such a manuer that time was measured by their burning—six candles lighted in succession, burning exactly twenty-four hours. Several records refer to the trade of wax-chander as early as the sixteenth century. The first description of rushlights seems to be in White's Natural History of Selborne, published in 1775 .- Belgrovia.

DEMOLISHING BED-BUGS .- Permit the toe-DEMOLISHING BED-BUGS.—Fermit the toe-nails (not the bed-bugs) to lengthen out considerable, and then, with a keen penknite, give them pen-shaped points. Leave light barning on retiring, and stick a foot or two from beneath the counterpane as a bait for the bugs. Keep a vigidant watch, and should one appear for about three or four hours waiting the after about three or four hours waiting, 1estrain your blood-thirsty devices until you get him balanced on the very spex of one of the sharpened nails, and then, with all the force you can summon, kick your foot against the ceiling, and if the nail penetrates it an inch or two, you can make up your mind that yon've punctured the bug n few. Should your experiment prove n success, there will be apt to be a red spot where the bed-bug struck. You can pretty generally form some idea of the bed-bug's sensations by noticing the strange feeling in the neighborhood of the toe for a few moments after the collision.

The Household says you can make eloth water-proof, by putting in a pail of soft water half a pound of sugar of lead, half a pound of alum; then stir this nt intervals until it becomes clear; pour it into another pail nad put the garment therein for twentyfour hours, and then hang it up to dry without wringing it. Grease can be extracted from floors by applying n paste of wood ashes; keep it on several days, and then wash it off. Stains on wall paper can be cut out with a sharp knife, and pieces of paper so nicely inserted that no one can see the patch.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, senses of the Throat and Lungs. such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption.

and Consumption.

Prohably never before by the whole history of medwine, he sanything won so widely and so deeply upon the confidence of mankind, as this excellent remeable for pulmonary complaints. Through a long series of years, and among most of the races of men it has risen higher and higher in their estimation, as it has become better known. Its uniform character and power to correct the various affections of the lungs and throat, have made it known as a reliable protector against them. While adapted to milder forms of disease and to young children, it is at the same time the most effectual remedy that can be given for meigheit consumption, and the dangerons affections of the throat and lungs. As a provision against sudden attacks of Cronp, it should be kept on hand in every family, and indeed as all are sometimes subject to colds and coughs, all should be provided with this anticlede for them.

Although settled Consumption is thought include, still great numbers of cases where the disease seemed settled, have been completely circle, and the patient restored to sound health by the Cherry Pectoral. So complete is its mastery over the disorders of the Lungs and Throat, that the most obstinate of them yield to it. When nothing else could reach them, under the Cherry Pectoral they subside and disappear.

Singers und Public Speakers find great protection from it.

Asthma is always relieved and often wholly curred by it.

Bonchitis is generally cured by taking the Cherry Pectoral in small and frequent doves.

eured by it.

Branchitis is generally cared by taking the Cherry Pectoral in small and frequent do.es.

So generally are its virtues known that we need not publish the certificates of them here, or do more than assure the public that its qualities are fully maintained.

Ayer's Ague Cure,

For Fever and Aque, Intermittent Fever, Chill Fever, Remittent Fever, Dumb Aque, Periodical or Bilious Fever, &c., and indeed all the affections which arise from majarious, marsh, or miasmatio poisons.

As its name implies, it does Cure, and does not fail. Containing neither Arseule, Quinine, Bissunth, Zine, nor any other mineral or poisonous substance whatever, it in nowise injures any patient. The number and importance of its cures in the agra districts, are literally beyond account, and we be never without a paraflel in the bistory of Ague medicine. Our pride is gratified by the acknowledgments we receive of the radical cures effected in obstinate cases, and where other remedies had wholly failed. Unacclimated pecsons, either resident in, or travelling through miasmatic localities, will be protected by taking the AGUE CURE* daily.

For Bibous pisonders and Liver Complaints, it is an excellent remedy, producing many truly remarkable ences, where other medicines had failed. Prepared by Ins. J. C. Aven & Co., Practical and Analytical Chemists, Lowell, Mass., and sold all round the world.
